

Temple University: Before and After SocialWorkCAS

Temple University School of Social Work was focused on its mission to serve the greater community by preparing students to work with complex life situations. With full-time, part-time, and online program options; more than 500 internship sites; and a high passing rate for initial social work licensure exams, it was clear why applications were up. However, there wasn't enough time and resources to authentically review each applicant.

After one year in SocialWorkCAS, the Centralized Application Service (CAS™) for social work programs, Temple University has already seen impressive results. Not only did the implementation of SocialWorkCAS take only 12 weeks, but their admissions process has changed for the better! Thanks to SocialWorkCAS, they have more time to focus on what really matters: engaging the students who will go on to make a difference as social workers!

Thanks to SocialWorkCAS, Temple University has seen:

2% INCREASE
in diversity of applicants.

4% INCREASE
in out of state applications.

75% REDUCTION
in time to decision.

50% REDUCTION
in manual tasks.

75% REDUCTION
in application review time.
(4 weeks to 1 week)

DEPARTMENTAL SAVINGS
on supplies such as ink/toner, paper, folders and labels.

I have one word to describe SocialWorkCAS: Invaluable! This application platform has expanded our applicant pool, streamlined our communications and empowered us to take control of our admissions process. Time, office supplies, money — we've saved it all during our first year using SocialWorkCAS. Not only that, but we're more engaged with applicants and able to reallocate resources to other recruitment and enrollment management tasks.

- Erin Brosious, Academic Coordinator,
Temple University School of Social Work

Want to see similar results for your program?
Visit socialworkcas.liasoncas.org.

